

Does a society whose citizens have access to an Unconditional Basic Income exhibit more direct democratic participation? Could Joseph Beuys's art and work concept point in the direction of the need for a basic income? What do we hope to gain from the "Expedition Basic Income" project when trying to implement subsidized basic income experiments in cities and communities via direct democracy?

On June 18th 2021 at 2 pm (GMT). Duration: 1½ hours. Public event, Language: german

Participation & UBI

What chances does direct democracy provide for the introduction of Basic Income? To what extent could a guaranteed basic income give citizens more of a voice in politics? These are the questions being asked by the FRIBIS "Participation and Universal Basic Income" team. Read more

Expedition Basic Income

What form of basic income is best suited to our society? The FRIBIS Basic Income Expedition team aims to examine this question through an experiment, starting a pilot project by means of direct democracy to try out various UBI variants at a communal level. Read more

New Research Position "Expedition"

FRIBIS is expanding its research in its "Expedition BGE" team. Here it will be investigating the affordability of the basic income on a municipal level by means of the fiscal equalization system. For this purpose, a research position will be established within the institute. For more information on the subject of the research, watch the Interview with Prof. Neumärker (german).
